

Source: NCEES.org
2018

PE Volume and Pass Rates vs. Experience

Examinees with four years of engineering experience after graduation have the greatest probability of success on the PE exam. Pass rates for examinees with fewer than or more than four years' experience are lower, typically in proportion to the length of time from the four-year mark.

